

From: Chawla, Rajan [<mailto:rajan.chawla@med.uvm.edu>]
Sent: Tuesday, October 31, 2017 2:06 PM
To: All Students
Subject: Wanted - Examples of Foundations OneNote Notebooks

Dear Class,

The LCOM EdTech group (part of COMTS) needs your OneNote notebooks. We want examples of your artistic skill, your innovative note-taking techniques and examples of how you use OneNote. We'll be using these as examples, as part of video tutorials for other students and for the most elaborate, wall art. We will make sure to keep these examples anonymous.

What's in it for you? We have LCOM-branded wooden yo-yos for those who submit OneNote examples that we end up using. Hurry, supplies are limited.

You don't have to leave the comfort of MedEd 200. Simply share your OneNote page or entire notebook with rchawla@med.uvm.edu and we'll be in touch or stop by the COMTS Service Center located in the Larner Learning Commons and ask for Raj.

Thank you!

--

Raj Chawla
Pronouns: he / him
Faculty Technology Liaison
Larner College of Medicine Technology Services
Dean's Advisory Committee on Diversity & Inclusion (DACDI)
University of Vermont
802-656-2254